

THEATRE POPULAIRE DESIRE BONOGO

The objective of the project is the sustainable rehabilitation of the Théâtre Populaire Désiré Bonogo within the complex "Choreographic Development Center La Termitière" (CDC) located in the capital of Burkina Faso Ouagadougou, seeking the renewal of the area's identity through the use of materials and local techniques. Due to the fragmentation present in the city and the loss of identity caused by the persistent globalization, the aim is to communicate the area with the main surrounding streets, thus stitching the plot, while an introverted space is formed through a central organization that causes feelings of peace, spirituality and protection. These sensations are related to the "spiritual world", to which africans frequently resort through the use of traditional African masks, and are opposed to this globalized world. As for sustainability, this is achieved through the use of local materials and techniques; In addition, the central space is proposed as a floodable park, which would allow the collection of water accumulated there during the rainy months
