

Design of a Private University Campus at Dhaka

Concept : A place for Exploring Ideas

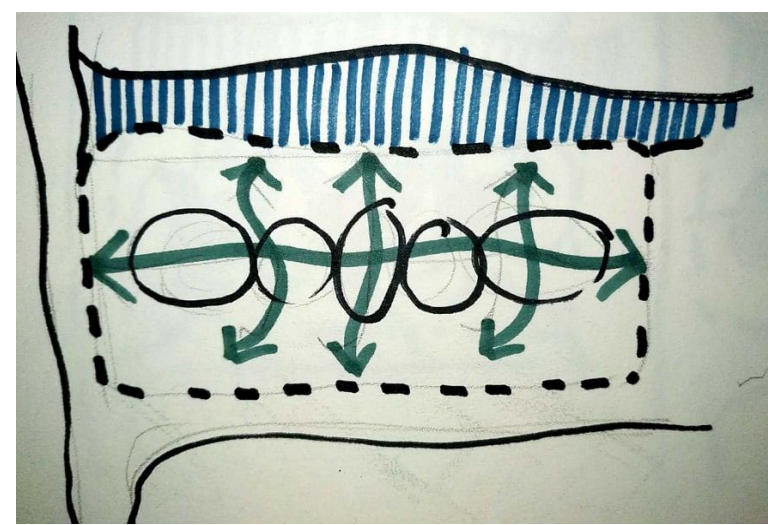

Why : The purpose of a campus is to bring together diverse people and their ideas in an friendly environment that creates potential for intellectual and social exchange. It is the open space which has the potential to open ones mind and think diversly. The idea is to connect different people of different ages and share their their ideas under one roof to develop the society. To do so it is needed to develop the environment as friendly as possible.

How : To develop the idea I need to consider several things :- 1. Design consideration :

Centre point

The atrium lobby act as the center point and gateway to the building

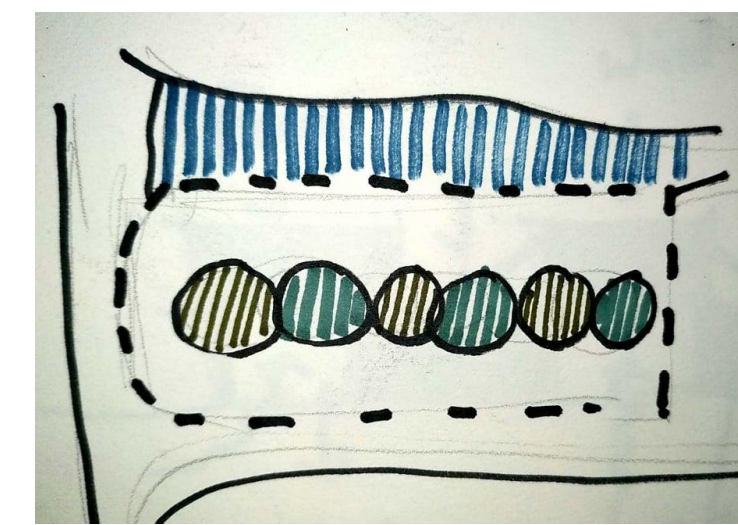

Natural cross ventilation

The atrium lobby act as the center point and gateway to the building

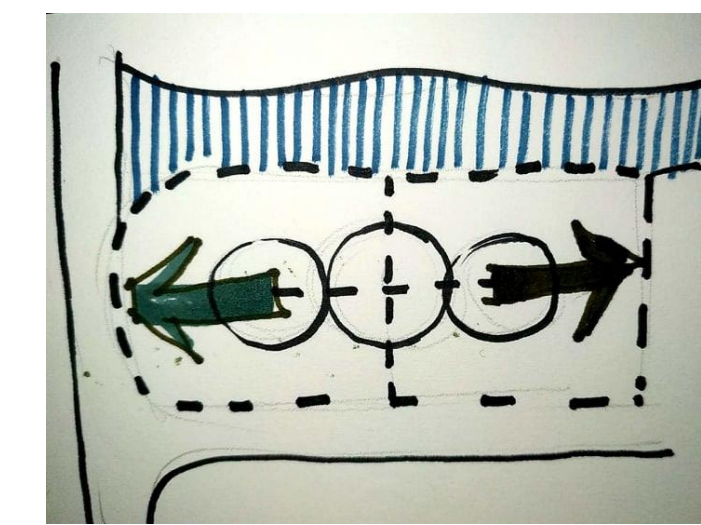

Vehicle circulation

Sensible vehicle circulation and parking

Internal circulation

Human internal circulation separation

Dividing public and private areas with the lobby

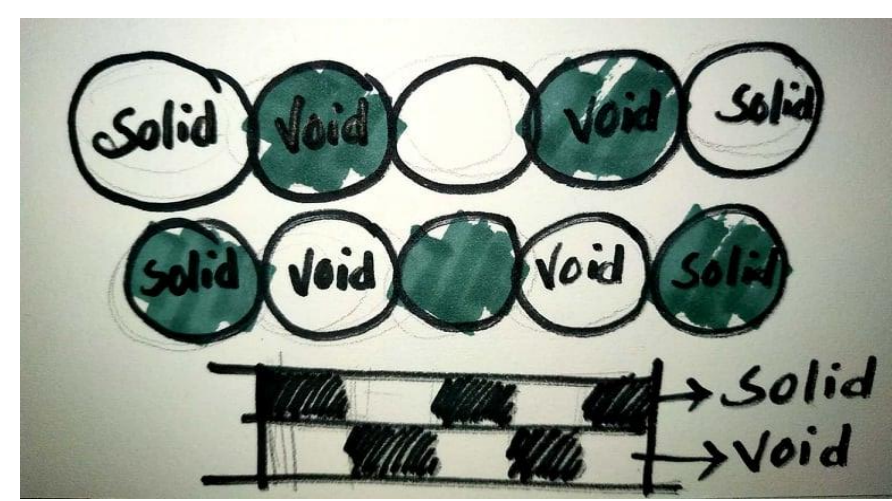

Wind direction

Analysis of weather data shows high occurrence of cool wind from south

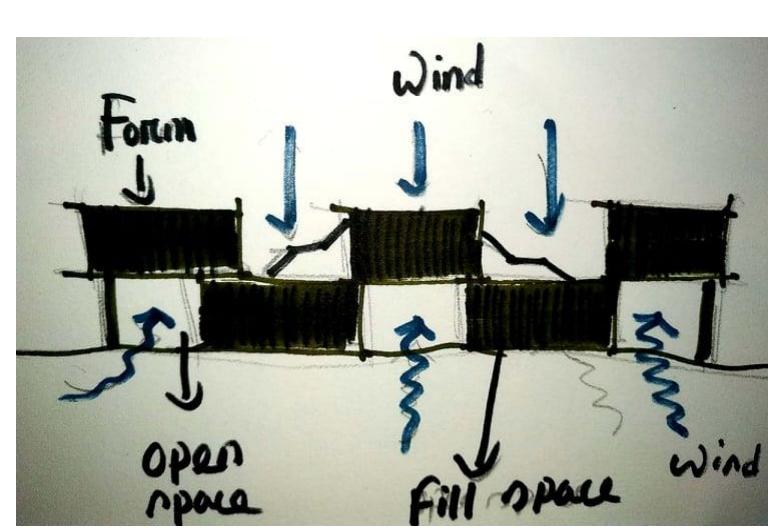

Green area

Abundant green area connection

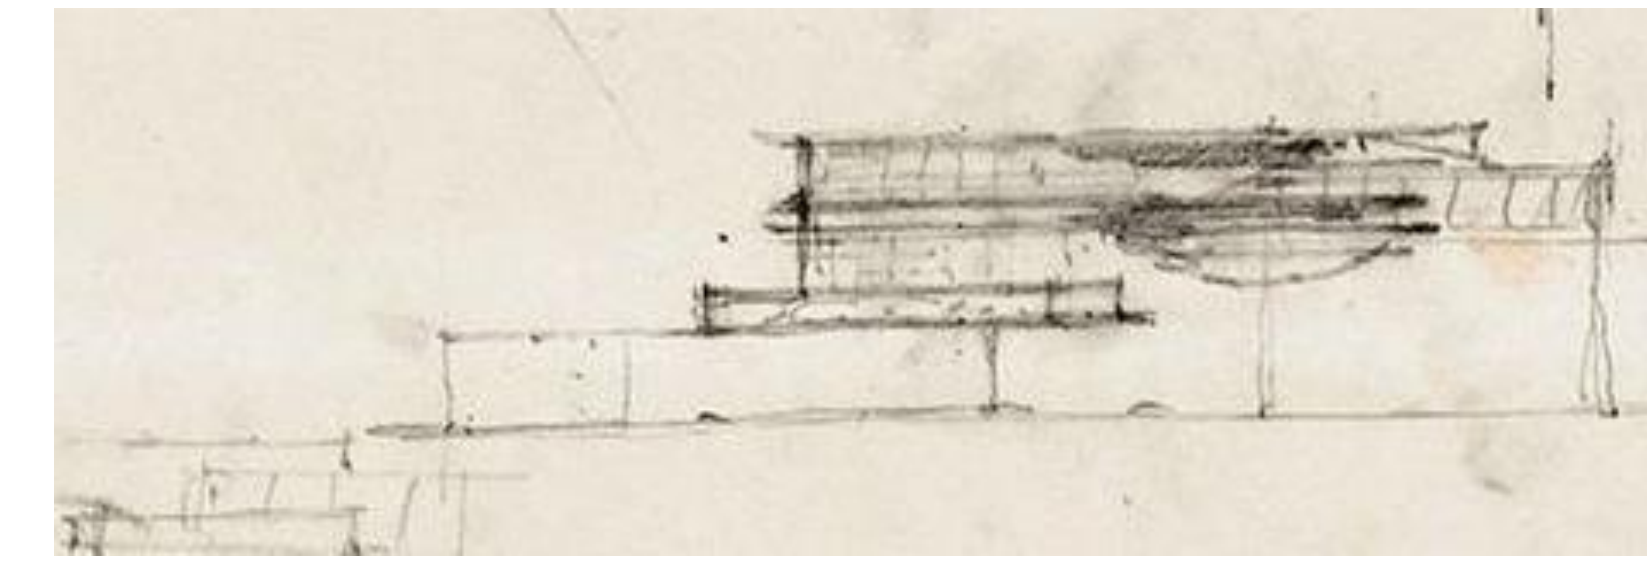

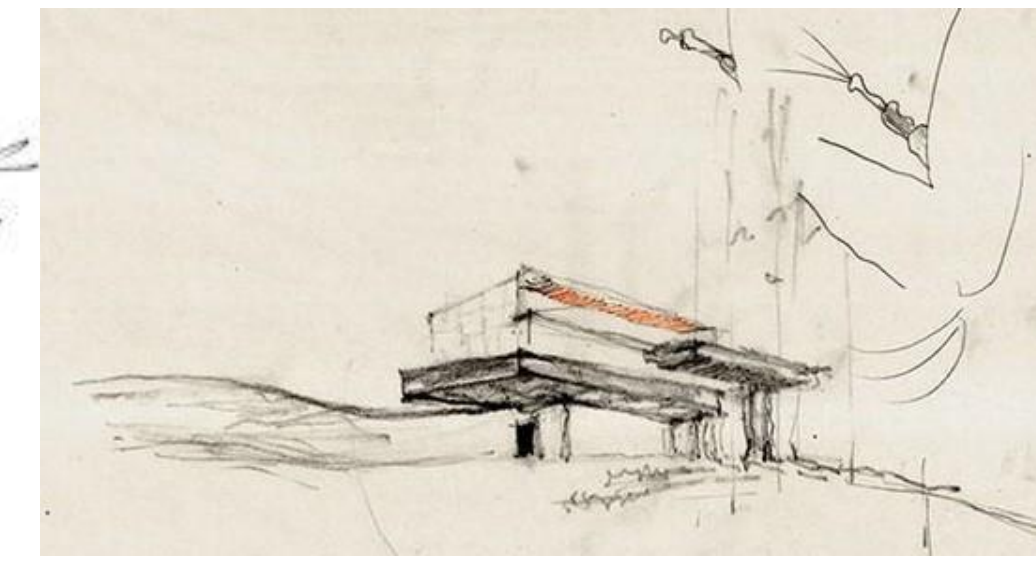

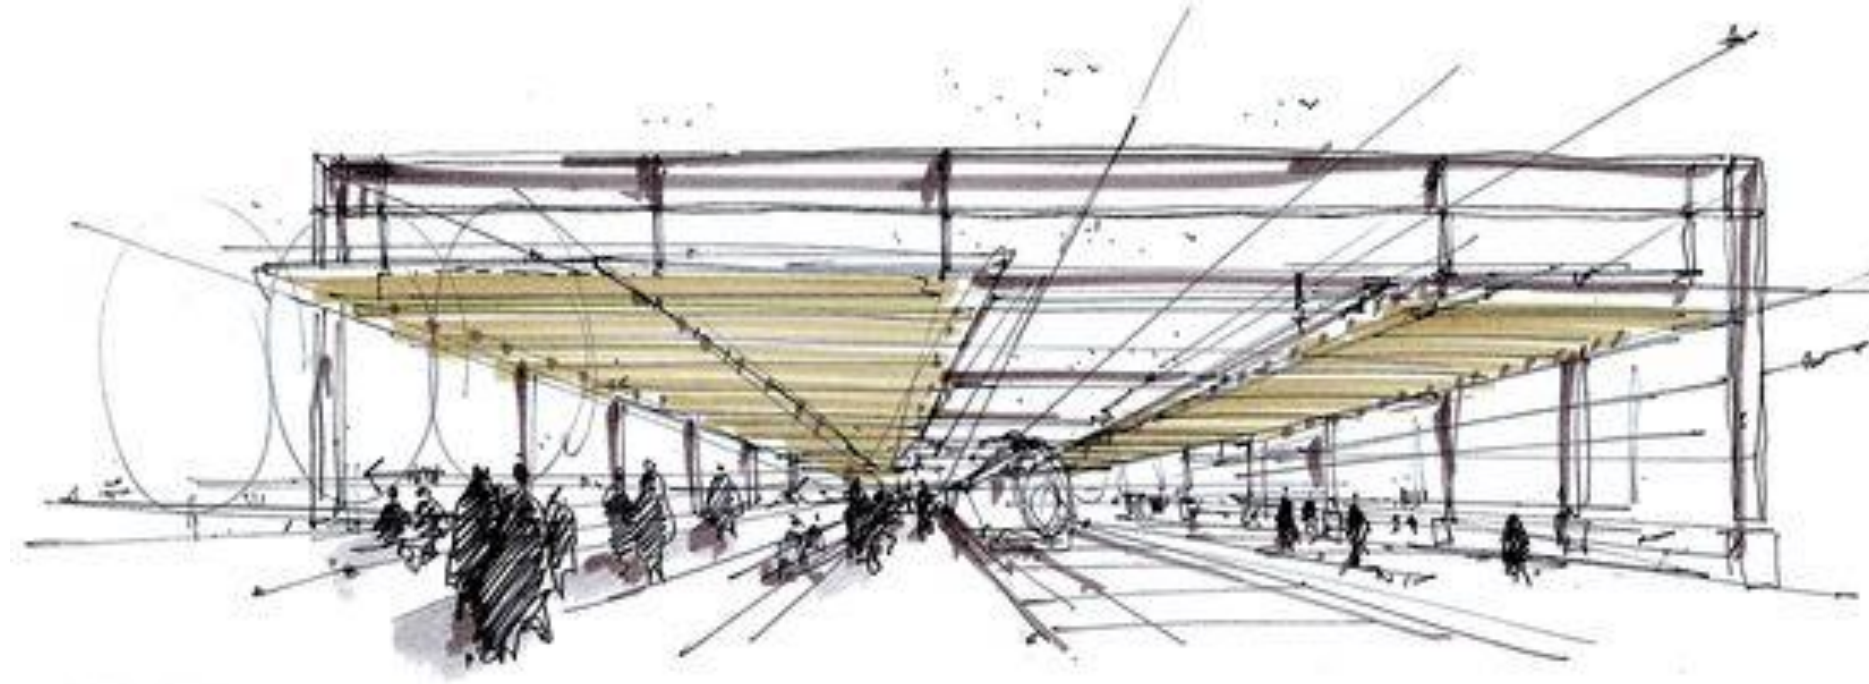

Solid void

Alternating solid void relationships integration

Connecting outdoor and indoor spaces by altering spaces

2. Massing generate :-

3. Conceptual sketches :-

