

ASTRONOMICAL WALK: COFFEE BAR, LIBRARY, GIFT SHOP, AND TERRACE

We propose the manipulation of the ground plane as a rooting mechanism with the place. In this way the ground goes from being a passive object to being an operational one, becoming an active part of the actions that are applied on it.

In this way, we take the ground as an architectural strategy, where the encounter between it and the construction, the form and the way in which the contact between the two is established, will always be specific to each situation.
