Workshop:

The workshop is the largest building within the complex and functions as a centre for practical training and skill development.

Residents can learn basic carpentry, sewing, repair work, and other hands-on skills that may improve employability and self-sufficiency. Beyond its educational role, the workshop encourages collaboration, knowledge sharing, and the development of supportive social connections.

Practical work helps residents build confidence, develop responsibility, and gain experience that can support future employment opportunities.

The workshop transforms the recovery process into tangible action, allowing personal growth to be expressed through meaningful work and achievement.
