

The architecture responds to terrain and risk. Circulation paths weave through modular units, while the stepped configuration integrates structural logic with the land. Fire protection is embedded within this layered spatial system