

BLOOM LINE

A living flower exchange where architecture, water, and cultivation merge into a single ecosystem. The project reimagines the journey of the rose from field to market as a shared cultural and economic experience.

